What Am I Being Asked To Do? You are being asked to be a volunteer in a research study. This page will give you key information to help you decide if you would like to participate. Your participation is voluntary. As you read, please feel free to ask any questions you may have about the research.

What Is This Study About and What Procedures Will You Be Asked to Follow? The purpose of this study is to analyze how people use visualization in Large Language Model (LLM) agent development and to determine which visualization design best supports those tasks.

If you decide to be in this study, your part will involve interacting with a visualization interface and answering interview questions about your experience.

- Interview Group: Your participation will take approximately 60 minutes.
- Online Study Group: Your participation will take approximately 30 minutes.

Are There Any Risks or Discomforts You Might Experience by Being in this Study?

The risks involved are no greater than those involved in daily activities such as using a computer. You may experience minor eye strain or fatigue from looking at the screen; however, you are allowed to take breaks as needed to minimize this discomfort.

What Are the Reasons You Might Want to Volunteer For This Study? You are not likely to benefit in any way from joining this study. However, your participation may assist researchers in understanding how to better design visualizations for LLM development.

Compensation to You

- If you are in the Interview Group: You will be compensated $15 for your participation.
- If you are in the Online Study (Prolific): You will be compensated at a rate of $12 per hour for your time and effort.

Please note that full compensation will not be given to those who withdraw early or do not complete the study.
